MD appointed to SA Chamber of Mines and Energy

Petratherm's Managing Director Terry Kallis has been appointed to the Council of the SA Chamber of Mines and Energy to represent Geothermal/Renewables.

Mr Kallis officially joined the council at a meeting last week.

The South Australian Chamber of Mines and Energy (SACOME) is the peak industry association for all companies with business interests in the resources industry in South Australia.

This covers those with business, vocational or professional interests in minerals exploration, mining and processing, oil and gas exploration, extraction and processing, power generation including geothermal power, transmission and distribution, logistics, transport, infrastructure, and those with clients in these sectors.

"This position provides Petratherm with an ideal opportunity to join forces with the powerful and important resources sector in promoting the geothermal and renewable energy industry," Mr. Kallis said.

John Roberts of Mithril Resources is president of the council and other members include Derek Carter (Minotour Exploration Ltd), Tino Guglielmo (Stuart Petroleum), Mark Milazzo (HWE Mining Pty Ltd), Hans Umlauff (Iluka Resources Limited (SA), Jim White (OneSteel), Dean Dalla Valle (BHP Billiton), Graham Ascough (Mithril Resources), Andrew Freeman (Santos Ltd), George McKenzie (Finlaysons), Patrick Clifford (Ironclad Mining Ltd), Ros DeGaris (Adelaide Brighton) and Michael Reed (WorleyParsons).
